Appomattox Tobacco Market

Last Thursday the first sale of loose tobacco occurred in the handsome new brick tobacco warehouse of the Farmers Tobacco Warehouse Co., at Appomattox. The opening day had been well advertised and farmers for many miles around began to come in one day before the sale day—coming from Buckingham and Campbell counties. The warehousemen and buyers of Pamplin were in attendance, also Messrs. Word, of Blackstone, and Dunnington, of Farmville. The sale was fast and lively and 20,640 pounds of primings were sold at from 5 to 16 cents per pound, the sale averaging $8.74 per hundred pounds.

At the Appomattox Tobacco Warehouse 7,000 pounds were sold, averaging in price from 64 to 131 cents per pound, averaging $8.62 per hundred. The total sales for the opening day led the State in price and amount to $7,460.

So far as heard from, it appears that Appomattox primings are in demand on the opening day led the State in price and amount to $7,460.

The market today is reported stronger, and with a season for handling the weed the market here will be very active, with a large corps of anxious buyers.

Found in Appomattox Elmer and Andrew McKinney former Roanoke boys, wanted in Roanoke to claim a considerable sum of money to which they have fallen heir, have been located, according to a letter received by Chief of Police A. B. Griffin from John F. Farrar, a farmer of New Evergreen, Va.

Mr. Farrar writes that eleven years ago he adopted Harvey Andrew McKinney from the Children's Home Society at Richmond, while a neighbor adopted the brother, Lawrence Elmer McKinney. Andrew was then four years old, says Mr. Farrar. The records of legal adoption are on file at Appomattox, Mr. Farrar writes.

About two weeks ago a woman of this city asked Chief Griffin to try and locate the brothers so that they might claim their inheritance, the exact amount of which was not disclosed. The World News told the story of the missing heirs and this was copied by the Lynchburg News from which the story reached Mr. Farrar—Roanoke dispatch to Lynchburg News.
